

Functional and psychosocial burden associated with urinary dysfunction after spinal cord injury: A nationwide Brazilian observational study

Mello M (1), Truzzi J(2), Gomes C(3), Averbek M(4), Silva J(5), Prezzoti J(3), Duarte J(3), Ferreira R (6), Almeida S(7), Pinto V(3).

1. Federal University of Paraná. 2. Federal University of São Paulo, 4.São Lucas Hospital-PUCRS, 5. Federal Hospital Andaraí, 6.Centro Estadual de Reabilitação Readaptação Dr. Henrique Santillo, 7. State University of Londrina.

Conclusion: Urinary symptom, particularly symptom severity, was consistently associated with functional and psychosocial burden after spinal cord injury, supporting the inclusion of urinary outcomes as core components of long-term care strategies aimed at improving autonomy, mental health, and social participation in individuals with SCI.