

2nd LONDON MASTERCLASS: EMERGING CONCEPTS IN THE MANAGEMENT OF FAECAL INCONTINENCE

Date and time

September 15-16, 2016

Location

Queen Mary University of London, Mile End Campus, London, UK

Goal

Faecal incontinence represents a huge (and ever increasing) healthcare burden, and successful patient management remains a considerable challenge. The goal of this meeting will be to disseminate and to critically appraise both a contemporary understanding of current best clinical practice, but also to highlight those evolving concepts relevant to this condition that hopefully will lead to improved management in the future.

Target audience

Gastroenterologists, pelvic floor surgeons and urogynaecologists at Consultant and trainee level, clinical GI and neurophysiologists, clinical research fellows, and specialist nurses.

Course highlights:

Delivered by an International Faculty of recognized experts.

- Clinical burden and epidemiology
- Aetiology and pathophysiological mechanisms
- Diagnostic investigations
- Treatment (conservative, medical and surgical)
- Panel discussion: algorithm of care for the 21st century

Cost Masterclass September 15-16

£ 200.00 for Consultant surgeons, gastroenterologists and urogynaecologists

£ 50.00 for trainees, nurses, and clinical GI and neurophysiologists
