A urologist well-versed in female urology, cannot practice surgical craft in isolation. In real-world situations, SUI often exists with concomitant anterior compartment prolapse. Anterior compartment prolapse may be part of multicompartment POP and may be associated with SUI or voiding dysfunction. Recurrence rates of ~30% have been reported following surgery. Surgical proficiency in the native tissue repair techniques is the need of the hour for the practicing urologist to ensure best surgical outcomes for the patient.

The participants will hear from three senior surgeons (two urogynecologists and one urologist) on these issues with interactive case-based discussions, surgical videos and didactic lectures based on the latest in prolapse research. The workshop will equip the practicing urologist to immediately start translating the principles espoused and surgical techniques shown, into their everyday practice.

All participants MUST register with ORGANIZING SECRETARY, FFUS
Restricted to 30 members (15 trainees) on first come basis; Registering and not attending may invite punitive steps
